Personal note

On 24 September 1913 Gustav BUCHACKER filed a patent application (LU10361) on a carbide lamp with the following illustration of his invention (ignition device):

Two days later, on 26 September 1913 Georg FLESCH of Kayl filed his patent application (LU10365) on a carbide lamp presenting an illustration of his invention similar to that of BUCHACKER's invention, claiming the latter's ignition device as a detachable accessory:

Did the two inventors collaborate in Kayl?
